MET THE RUSSIANS

Elfred Davis With Rear Admiral Train's Fleet at Manila.

HELPED TO MOVE AND CARE FOR WOUNDED RUSSIANS.

He Writes Interestingly of Daily Routine of the Sailor's Life.

The following letter from Elfred A. Davis, serving in the medical department of the U. S. Navy, on the U. S. Ship Wilmington, tells of the reception given the disabled Russian battleships and the wounded Russian naval soldiers under Admiral Enquist when the latter reached the Philippines June 3rd.

Elfred was of the medical party that removed and gave aid to the wounded and writes touchingly of the fearful casualties.

This is one of a series of letters that Mr. Davis will write to THE FREE. A private letter to the publisher says that he expects to sail for the States in the near future, via Europe. He will favor us with other letters en route, written in his usual new and interesting style. Previous communications from Elfred to THE FREE have been read with much interest in Earlinton and Hopkins county. Future letters will be looked for with pleasant anticipation. The letter follows:

U. S. S. WILMINGTON,
J. S. ASIATIC FLEET,
OFF CAMRIG, MANILA, P. I.,
June 5, 1905.

EDITOR FREE,

DEAR SIR:—The morning of June 3rd found the American fleet under Rear Admiral Train in a state of expectancy, the day before a signal from the flagship Ohio notified the ship in good condition, to be ready to stand out to sea the next day. Everyone expected a fine cruise, the weather was exceptional, not a ripple disturbed the water. So one knew or cared what the destination of the fleet was, but all hands were satisfied to know that a voyage was before them, and sailor-like welcome any diversion to break the dull monotony of life in this climate, and just now with war in the ascendant, life in the far East is uncertain and one never knows what the next day may bring.

Life on a man-of-war is regulated by a strict routine. As usual on the morning of the 3rd, all hands were piped at three bells and as healthy young American tars were tumbling out of their hammocks and scurrying gaily-wards for early morning coffee, which Spuds, (ship's cook), and his assistants had awaiting them, and Jimmy-legs (Master at Arms) and the Honon Mats were yelling and shaking the lazy ones who would sleep a little longer, baggie sounding, pipes (Bosons whistle) spilling, one wonders if order can come out of chaos, with this water-splashing, yelling, good natured mob, with here and there a sore-head rubbing his eyes and declaring in a sleepy tone how insane his ship-mates act, and how little sleep he gets.

As one passes along the decks he hears good natured jests, seasoned with a few quaint oaths as only belong to a seaman's vocabulary. You hear a quartermaster tell a seaman that the uniform of the day will be "clean whites," you hear an old salt telling how much better were the old days, when grog went with early coffee, "after the 1st, M. C. A. run the outfit," as he chooses to put it. But don't pass on, you will after a bit hear this same old salt bragging about how much better records his gun's crew have made since their "cocks (heads) were not befogged by grog." You will hear one man running down some officer, you will hear another defend him, and as a climax to his argument will declare that "next to Helen Gould he is the best friend a sailor man has." I would like here to say that that good woman has so firmly established herself in the affections of American sailor men that all good is compared to Helen Gould by sailors. Pass on you hear discussions of all sorts; one crowd discussing Lawson and his motives, another bunch arraigning Congress, others listening to a fellow row hand preaching, here a group holding forth on the merits of salt horse over canned beef, others hailing to a younger crowd, explaining methods of telling real diamonds from paste, etc., etc., all good natured and noisy. What's that? Suddenly, above the din, you hear a shrill, unearthly shriek, high and penetrating. Instantly all is quiet, one could hear a pin fall, and this shrill noise (the boatswain's whistle) gradually dies out, with a long drawn, wailing blast, followed by a deep, hoarse, mumbled cry—music that can only come from the vocal cords of a boatswain's-mate, tuned by sou-westers, and pitched to the tune of the typhoon, sprayed by nature's normal salt solution and inhaled only by the sea-serpent.

He said: "All hands turn to, clank down decks both fore and aft." Instantly everyone is busy, confusion again, but now there is a method in their madness. What a change! no haphazard in sight, quarter-deck working like mad, each trying to make his piece the neatest, deck hands scrubbing decks and shining bright-work. The black gang below on engines and first, everyone doing something. This continues until the bugle sounds first call for mess, then the men knock off and have breakfast, after which Jimmy-legs lights the smoking lamp and pipes and cigarettes are smoked, more yards, changing clothes for uniform of the day, etc., until eight bells and the bugle sounds colors; all hands stand attention and salute as the stars and stripes are run up and unfold themselves to attention. Now the day in reality has begun aboard ship; no more smoking or loud talking, but a busy hum as Jack goes about boat drills, signal practice, etc. About one bell (9:30) a whispering goes around the ship, "what's the word?" "Why the old man (captain) just joined the navigator on the bridge; something doing. A string of flags are run up on the flagship, wondering eyes are turned toward the bridge; they are not in suspense long; the word is sung loud and clear, "All hands stand by to anchor" followed by the whirl of winches, hurried orders, answered by a brisk "aye, aye, sir," below decks, black smoke issues from the funnels, ventilators are trimmed on the wind, the man in the bow sings out "Anchor's aweigh, sir," and an American war ship is under way, steaming majestically into life, and foraging on the flagship.

So it was with us on the morning of the 3rd as our ships steamed out of Manila Bay. I would like to tell you something of life aboard ship at sea, but I fear I have already too severely tried your patience and will risk but little more to the blue pen. The watches were changed and things went their usual course until we were well out to sea, when suddenly everyone about the decks were brought to their feet by a cry from the lookout, in the crow's nest, "Smoke, ho, sir," and after a bit three strangers were made out on our starboard bow. They proved to be the Russian cruisers Oleg, Zemtchug, and flagship Aurora with Admiral Enquist aboard. They were all in bad condition, fresh from the fight in the northern straits. Permission was granted them to enter Manila Bay and medical aid was offered which was gladly accepted. No one other than regular officials were allowed aboard, with the medical party, of which I was a member. We decided to take all the worst wounded ashore with us, and had boats for that purpose. As our launch went alongside I could see the condition of the ships which certainly spoke well for the Japanese. The ships were riddled in places, spousons battered and smoke-stacks full of holes, and the anxious faces that met our gaze, powder burnt begrimed, and with relieved feelings, they thanked us for our offer. The officers met us and led us below to the berth deck, and there I saw a spectacle of suffering that time will never efface from my memory.

An American general once remarked that "war is hell." I used to think that rather a harsh way of putting it, but now I wonder that there is not war in the English language that will no nearer express the awfulness of war. That lower deck of the Czar's ship was like the dream of Dante, but alas too real. I am unable to picture the suffering and evidences of suffering I beheld. Surely that ship had been cruising near the Styx, piloted by the hand of misfortune, into waters where death was king and cries of anguish were answered by the hellish thud of the torpedo. Scattered about the decks on dirty blankets with one linen or mattress were wounded bodies of human beings, some one's brother, son, husband or sweetheart, gasping for breath, some already beyond human help, others raving with fever fighting against their battles, or muttering words of love to their dear ones in their northern homes, others cursing and tearing at bandages, some thinking of home which they would never see again. The medical officers and nurses had done all in their power, to allay their suffering, but the task was superhuman, and they turned grateful faces to us for our timely aid.

I noticed one poor fellow scarcely twenty laying quietly holding a shipmate's hand and listening to the words of a priest; he glanced wistfully in our direction wondering no doubt, if we would move you already. No man becomes inured to the sight of suffering, but each death struggle he witnesses only impresses more firmly on his mind how uncertain this life is and he should look forward and be prepared to answer when his time comes. He should pay the debt of gratitude, he owes his God, by trying to make some else happy, and answering the call of the sick and suffering, for that is the true Christianity. I am Sir

Very Respectfully Yours,
ELFRED A. DAVIS, U. S. Navy,
U. S. Ship Wilmington.

FOUND DEAD.

Edward Ruby Killed.—Found Near the Railroad Tracks at Huntington, Ind.—Buried in Madisonville Monday.

Edward Ruby was found near the track in the railroad yards at Huntington, Ind., last Wednesday in an unconscious condition and died in a short time after his removal.

It is not known just how he met his death. He had been in a restaurant and in paying for his meal had a bill changed, in less than one hour afterwards he was found in a dyug condition with no money in his pockets. He had a printer's card in his him from that ship of disaster, but poor fellow he then breathing his last, and even as I looked he raised himself, smiled, held out his hands, and dropped back on his rough pillow, lifeless clay. He had passed from the Czar's service, his fight was done, he stood before that king, who taught love, and not war. But why dwell on these things which words fail to picture. I saw that, and many other sights, and thought "were these things as God had predestined," so, was it the invention of Satan, the realization of hell on earth, and it was not intended for men to fight. We quickly got several, who were able, ready to go ashore to a nice, cool, clean hospital, and as their comrades gathered around and kissed them goodby (a Russian custom), one could see tears in the eyes of strong men, for they knew full well that several were destined to lie in sailors' graves, before many days. I need not dwell on how glad the poor fellows were when they reached the hospital, but all were well cared for from the brawny athlete to his Highness Prince Potemkin who was among the wounded. Admiral Enquist was also wounded but refused to leave his ship.

Of course the story of this battle has long since reached you, but these little details that I have tried in my poor way to tell you better are part of the dispatches. I am sorry space will not permit my telling more but I fear I have taxed pocket bearing his name, and his home address, Madisonville, also appeared on papers in his pockets but this was misinterpreted to mean Maysville and the telephone and telegraph were used in an effort to locate his relatives at Maysville. The citizens of Huntington were convinced that the deceased was of gentle birth and held the remains while making every effort to locate his relatives. The printers and newspaper men at that place had the remains embalmed and prepared for burial. A sister of Mrs. George Rash, of Madisonville, saw an account of his death in a paper and sent it to Mrs. Rash. This was the first knowledge of the sad affair that reached the family. Clint Ruby, a brother of the dead man, took the first train for Huntington and returned with his brother's remains Monday.

Funeral services were held at the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. C. Morton, after which the interment took place at the Odd Fellows cemetery Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Edward Ruby was for several years foreman of this paper and was a hard working industrious man and one of the best printers in the country

UNION STATION

Of L. & N. at Louisville.—Loss $350,000.—Traffic Not Interrupted.

Louisville, Ky., July 17.—The Union passenger station, at Tenth and Broadway, was destroyed by fire tonight, entailing a loss of about $350,000. The amount of the insurance is not known.

The fire was discovered about 9:30 o'clock on the top floor of the four-story stone structure, and although every fire engine in the city except the reserve was on the scene in half an hour, the flames gained steadily, and in two hours after the start the building was eaten to a shell, only the walls being left standing.

Fortunately the fire occurred at a time when few trains were scheduled to arrive or depart, and only a small crowd of passengers was in the building. There was no panic and no casualties ensued.

Defective insulation on electric wires is thought to have caused the fire.

The loss was confined to the passenger station proper, the Louisville & Nashville freight depot standing alongside being saved by the firemen. The train shed was saved and the terminals were not obstructed. The fire caused small interruption to traffic on the Louisville & Nashville, Pennsylvania and Monon Railroads, the three companies using the station. Trains were detoured and passengers and baggage handled at the Union depot, Seventh and Water, and the Fourteenth-street depot.

Safeguard the Children.

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

MINING NOTES.

Mr. Elvie Hankins, of Nortonville, was in Madisonville Friday on business.

The Pine Knob Mining Co., of Ohio county, was incorporated at Frankfort, Ky., Saturday with a capital of $50,000.

The first car of coal was handed over the new tippie at St. Charles mine last week. Beginning with Monday, July 16, tipping was begun on the new tippie and it will be used continuously from now on. The new tippie will be completed within a few days as some construction work yet remains to be finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hall, of Linton, Ind., visited friends and relatives at Barnesley and in this city several days last week.

Mr. George Spicer, of Mercer Station, Ky., visited relatives in this city last week.

Paris Vincent, of Linton, Ind., was in the city Thursday and Friday on business.

Ed. Burdon, of Hillside, Ky., has been visiting friends here during the past week.

Pete Morgau, of Barnesley, was in the city Friday on business.

Mr. Fernando Nelson had an arm burnt by a miner's lamp recently while loading air hose on a car at Arnold mine.

Gus Cavanaugh, a cart driver at Hecla mine, was very painfully injured Saturday by a piece of sulphur falling off the cart striking him on the head while he was removing a block from under the wheels.

Mr. James Kelly, Sr., had the misfortune to have his right thumb very badly mashed last week. He was working at No. mine on the shaker separating sulphur from the coal when the accident happened.

It is thought that the selling price of coal to the dealers in the Nashville, Tenn., market will advance 50 cents per ton in the early fall. The cost of operation and the price of coal in other districts will be the reason if the advance is made.

The contract for supplying the public schools of Nashville, Tenn., with 25,000 bushels of coal for use during the winter months was secured by the Royal Coal Company, of Madisonville, last week.

The Mahoning Coal Company, of Parker's Lake, Pulaski county, was incorporated at Frankfort, Ky., Monday. It has $50,000 capital stock, and the incorporators are Loving Davidson, John Erskine and M. A. Erskine, all of Lowellville, O.

Coal has been advanced from 75 cents to $1.00 per ton at Lexington, Ky. Cannel coal that has been selling for $2.50 per ton is advanced to $3.50 and coal from the Jellico, Tenn., district is advanced from $2.50 to $3.25 per ton.

Several barge shipments have been made to St. Louis, Mo., by the North American Company since they purchased the properties at Sturgis, Ky., recently.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why not buy it now? It may save life.

For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlington; R. T. Robinson, Mortons Gap; Jno. X. Taylor, Earlington.

We do not care if the fence will turn stock. If it is a crooked fence we would tear it down and set it straight, for no one thing is more indicative of good business methods on the farm than that of fences, buildings, plow furrows and orchard trees set on the square.

A SICKENING SPECTACLE

Thousands Saw Aeronaut Maloney Drop Three Thousand Feet.

The Aeronaut Which He Was Manipulating at San Jose, Cal., Failed Here.

San Jose, Cal., July 19.—Daniel Maloney, who had made numerous successful ascensions with Prof. Montgomery's aeroplane, fell 3,000 feet to his death at Santa Clara Tuesday. Maloney made an ascension from the grounds of Santa Clara college in honor of the League of the Cross cadets, who are holding their annual encampment. About two thousand persons watched with interest the machine as it shot up from the college garden attached to a huge balloon. At a height of 4,000 feet Maloney cut loose and began maneuvering the aeroplane. He circled gracefully about, then essayed a deep dip. Suddenly the machine swerved, heeled and then turned completely over. It righted itself, sank down a considerable distance and turned over again. Maloney was clinging desperately to his seat and evidently endeavoring to regain his control, but all his efforts were in vain. Again the aeroplane turned in the air, the wings came together, and the man and machine plunged straight downward while the horrified spectators gasped helplessly. A number of cadets carried him to the college hospital. His head was fractured and blood was flowing from his ears and mouth. He expired within a short time. The aeroplane was ground into fragments.

RESCUED BY A SUMMER GIRL

Told a Chicago Man to "Keep His Nerve" Until the Arrival of the Lifeline.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 19.—One of the most daring rescues of the season was made by a pretty summer girl near Heinz's pier. In company with a party of friends, Edward D. Salsbery of Chicago, had gone into the surf. When out near the pier he was caught in the swift current that sweeps around the end of that structure and was being carried rapidly to sea. Mr. Salsbery called for assistance. Swimming out near him was Miss Berenice Greenberg, of Peoria, Ill., who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Pinkstein, of the same city. Miss Greenberg started after the struggling man. She reached him a little ahead of the lifeline, in charge of two life-guards, just as Mr. Salsbery was going down for the first time. "Keep your nerve, now," she said. "I've got hold of you; and she grabbed the sinking man by the hair. Placing one arm under him, she agreed to keep him afloat until the arrival of the life-guards, when both were pulled into the lifeline.

ANNUAL CAMPING OUT

President Roosevelt, With His Sons, Nephews and a Few Other Boys Spend Night in the Open.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 18.—President Roosevelt, with three sons, accompanied by a party of cousins and friends, left Sagamore hill, Tuesday afternoon, on their annual camping out expedition.

Hampers of provision were carried down to the four boats in waiting for the party on the president's bathing beach.

In the party besides the president and Theodore, Jr., were his sons, Archie Roosevelt, sons of the president; Jack, Philip and George Roosevelt, sons of W. Edwin Roosevelt; two sons of Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, two sons of Mr. Landon, a neighbor of the president, and a friend of Theodore, Jr., who is visiting him. The party is expected to return to Sagamore hill to-day about 6 o'clock.

MRS. MARY CARDER IS HELD

Taken to City Hospital, While Husband Follows With a Party of Children and Baby.

St. Louis, July 19.—Mrs. Mary Carder was held by the coroner for killing Miss Jessie Barnes. The verdict was homicide with felonious intent. Mrs. Carder fainted, and was taken to the city hospital, the husband following with two crying children and carrying the baby.

Mrs. Carder killed Jessie Barnes, a girl, in a rooming house on Olive board. Miss Barnes threw herself in front of her lover, and received a bullet doubtless intended for him.

TERMS—PEACE WITH DIGNITY

To Act Otherwise Would Be Fatal to Russia.

Looking For Support in European Capitals and in Washington—Inspired Statement.

St. Petersburg, July 18.—The following statement of Russia's position is published, and is believed to be inspired: "Russia can consent only to such a peace as will not affect the dignity or vital interests of the empire. To act otherwise would be fatal to Russia and would threaten all Europe. Europe no longer believes in Japan's assurances that she will not restrict American influence in the far east. "England and America, moral inspirators, can be heard in favor of the indirect inference of the power to moderate Japan's demands. "Our statesmen must remember that they must defend the interests not only of Russia, but also the other Caucasian powers, and they will find moral support in Berlin, Paris, Washington and perhaps even in London.

"Our army in the field is much stronger than it was 15 months ago. "The Hamburger Nachrichten proposes that Europe indicate to Japan that extreme demands will be resisted by Europe in general, especially Germany. This is a valuable statement. We must ascertain the acceptable maximum of our concessions to Japan from the European point of view and act accordingly."

Part of a Regiment Mutinies. Lodz, July 18.—Part of the Ekaterinburg regiment, stationed here, mutinied and killed an officer. The mutineers were arrested.

Czar Has Banished His Cousin. Berlin, July 18.—The Berliner Zeitung says the czar has banished his cousin, Grand Duke Nicholas Constantinovich at Stavropol in the Caucasus because it has been discovered that he was in friendly communication with the revolutionist conspirators.

Russian Forces Drive Northward. Tokio, July 17.—Reliable information has been received here that the Russian forces in northern Korea have gradually been driven northward since last month and now hold only two positions south of the Yumen river.

The latest information from the front, however, reports the advance south of a large force from Vladivostok, but it is believed the Russians will halt at Nohkifak, north of the Yumen, and concentrate their forces to make a resolute stand there against the Japanese. The rainy season has set in in Manchuria and prevents movements on a large scale.

Reinforcements for Livestock. St. Petersburg, July 16.—Plans for reinforcing Gen. Linewitch keep pace with the peace negotiations. The Nineteenth army corps has received marching orders, and six regiments of Don Cossacks have been made ready to take the field.

Write Clothed With Full Power. London, July 15.—Witte's commission as chief peace plenipotentiary for Russia clothes him with full power to negotiate peace with Japan.

Riot Ringleaders Hanged. Odessa, July 15.—Twenty-four of the ringleaders in the riots in this city were hanged. Others will be executed.

TO THE FRONT WITH THEIR Annual Mid-Summer Clean-Up Sale!

We know the people, "the great common people" as well as "the uncommon people" are sick and tired of the word "Sale" "Bargains here and bargains there," "House full and yard full and can't catch a spoon full" and all that, and so are we tired, tired, tired of it, but an "End of the Season Clean up Sale" has grown to the importance of a necessity.

Strive as we may, we can't learn to buy Just Exactly Right.

While 'tis true this year's business is running appreciably ahead of our 1904 work, it is just as much a fact that have bought too heavily in some lines---and what's to be done? A city girl writes: "I, a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and meander with him down life's path."

Ah, yes; that is a nice thing, but when your husband meanders off and leaves you without wood and you have to meander out and find the lone pulling splinters of the fence to cook dinner, and when you meander along in wet grass in search of the cows until your shoes are the color of rawhide and your stockings soaked and when you meander out across twenty acres to the meadow ground with a club to drive the hogs out of the corn field, and tear your dress on the barbed wire fence; when you meander back home and find the hilly road has butted the stailin' out of your child, and find the old hen with forty chickens in the parlor, you'll put your hands on your hips and realize that meandering is not what it cracked up to be.—Ex.

DAD.

(May Kelly in July Lippincott's.)

Oh, Dad! That makes me mad. It sounds so stiff and like a book—You bet I call mine Dad.

And he's a ripper, too, you bet. The boys all wish they had a father that would laugh and joke. And love them like my Dad.

Of course, sometimes, when all the bills Come in he's mighty mad, And then we sit as still as mice And hear him jaw, poor Dad.

It's always over soon, and then You bet we all climb on his lap And hug and kiss our Dad.

"You can't have kids and money, too."

He says, and so he's glad The good Lord made him poor, or else He mightn't been our Dad.

I don't want to be President, Like every little kid. When I'm grown up I'd rather be A nice man just like Dad.

There is a great waste in the attempt to cultivate river bottom lands which are half the season under overflow and cause the most total destruction of the crop. It is far better to keep such land in blue grass, which is benefited by a periodical overflow. Such lands properly utilized with the cow or the steer will give a net return of 100 percent on a valuation of over $100 per acre, which they will not do when the attempt is made to crop them.

A prominent farmer told us recently that the advent of the automobile on the country highways is driving the farmer's trade to the catalogue houses for the reason that it is safer for him to order his goods by mail than to trust his wife or boy with a horse and buggy to go to the local store for goods. There may be something in this.

Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I wrote for illustrated booklet, which I got and after taking three bottles I began to get better and now feel like I have improved until I am entirely well."

Helpful Hints.

Ceilings should be brushed with a covered broom, as well as walls.
Flies will not settle on windows that have been washed in water mixed with a little kerosene.

Four chlorides down pipes, or, perhaps better still, caustic soda, which cuts the accumulated grease.

Dyed chamols skin makes an excellent mat for a polished table. The skins come peacock blue, a rich terra cotta and a dull emerald green, any one of which colors makes a pleasant addition to the furnishings of a room, especially if the lamp which stands on the mat is Oriental in effect.

"Dilute your gasoline with a little water," is the advice given by a professional cleaner to those about to clean silk and others delicate fabrics. The theory is that the gasoline loosens the dirt, which the water then washes away. The proper proportions are a cup of gasoline to two quarts of water.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

BLUE G. HARRIS

Do you remember the long ago.
Or has time made you forget
The meadow where the soft wind blew.
O'er the trees where oft we met.

Do you remember the perfumed nights
When the smiling moon looked down.
When I told the old old story
And drank from your eyes of brown.

Do you remember the wide spread oak.
With its branches stretched afar,
The love in your eyes, the words
you spoke.
The sky and the southern star.

Do you remember the night birds song,
The flowers at your feet
Methinks I hear their song tonight,
And scent the perfume sweet.

Have you forgotten me, sweetheart.
Since the days of youth have fled,
I still remember the old times
And the joy of days long dead.

Grand Leader.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS

Mr. Pat Burke, of Memphis, Tenn., formerly an engineer on the Henderson division, now working on the L. & N. R. R., was in the city several days last week visiting friends and relatives.

The interlocking plant at Henderson that has been out of working order for several days, has been repaired. All trains can now pass over it at usual speed.

The south water crane at this place was out of shape several days this week. All south bound through trains took water at the north crane until it was repaired.

Conductor Hosser was in charge of the Nashville wrecker on this division Saturday. It was being taken to Upton, Ind., to assist in clearing up the wreck at that place.

Trains on the St. Louis division on account of the wreck at Upton, Ind., Saturday were detoured from Carmi, Ill., over the Big Four R. R. to Mt. Carmel, Ill., over the Southern R. R., from Mt. Carmel to Princeton, Ind., from Princeton they were handled by the E. & T. H. Railroad to Evansville, where they were transferred to this division.

Mr. Logan, one of the Empire hill firemen, visited friends and relatives at Hanson several days last week.

Mr. William J. Bertscher, of Howell, Ind., stenographer to Master Mechanic Thomas Walsh, visited friends in this city Sunday.

Switchmen Robt. Priest and Joe Huff have returned from a week's fishing and hunting trip at Ashbyburg, Ky. They reported catching plenty of fish but game was scarce.

No. 53 from the St. Louis division was 6 hours late Saturday morning on account of the wreck at Upton, Ind. A train was made up at Howell consisting of connecting lines, the Illinois Central, H. St. L. & T. and E. & T. H. railroads and ran south as 1st section. It was about on No. 53's regular schedule.

James Sparrow, formerly a conductor on the Henderson Division, but now on the A. K. & N. division at Blaine Ridge, Ga., passed through Friday en route to Evansville on a business trip.

The entire night yard crew and two night operators at Guthrie were discharged last week for cause.

There are now three steam shovels at work between Guthrie and Springfield and another one expected daily. The contractors are doing a vast amount of work there and expect to have the most of the grading done before cold weather. The track will be raised ten feet at some parts and still higher at others.

One of the most successful bits of railroading in modern times has just been accomplished by the L. & N. railroad. The handling of so many trains during the Reunion and the transportation of so many people without the smallest accident has been accomplished by the Louisville & Nashville System is an achievement to be proud of. It is almost beyond the conception of those unskilled in railroading how a set of officials could handle, so successfully, such an immense number of trains, packed as they were with human freight without accident. The L. & N. deservedly ranks with the greatest of the world's railway systems.—Exchange.

Perishable freight shipments from Georgia and Alabama to northern markets is daily increasing over the Henderson division. The freight consists of melons, peaches, tomatoes, etc., and it is the expectation of the L. & N. that they will handle about 2,000 carloads of peaches alone from Georgia and Alabama before the season is over.

Will Feiler, who was on the sick list several days last week, resumed work Friday.

The Hopkinsville accommodation, which runs between that place and Nashville, Tenn., will hereafter run on Sunday as well as every week day. This change was made in the new time table that was issued last Thursday. This train has been running for 35 years every week day and its first trip on Sunday was made on the 16th. This is said to be the first change that has been made in its schedule.

Mr. Virgil E. Watson, formerly of this city, now employed as flagman on the Hopkinsville accommodation, and Miss Willie Ray Jackson, a teacher in the high schools at Hopkinsville, were married at the home of the bride in that city last Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Watson, of Madisonville, father of the groom. All the Henderson division extend congratulations.

Fireman John Blakely, who has been working on the switch engine at Guthrie for several days, returned home Sunday night.

Engineer Bud Wendelkon made a business trip to Guthrie Sunday.

Conductor Oscar Bonham was in Evansville Monday on business.

Conductor Albert Hawes, who has been on the sick list for several days, has resumed work again.

Conductor Oscar Bonham and family left Tuesday for Concord, Tenn., where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

Four persons were killed and eight others injured in a head-on collision between freight train No. 57 west bound and freight train No. 80 east bound on the St. Louis division at Upton, Ind., Saturday morning. The wreck is said to have been caused by the operator at Mt. Vernon, Ind., which is four miles west of Upton, misunderstanding his orders. When he discovered his mistake he telephoned to Upton to have the trains flagged but it was then too late. The eight injured men were taken to Evansville and removed to St. Mary's Hospital.
